FOUR KILLED IN AETNA PLANT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Emporium, Pa., Oct. 7.—Explosion of nearly 5,000 pounds of gun-cotton late last night killed at least four men and injured a dozen in the Aetna Explosives Company plant. The death list may be greater. The blowup was in the gun-cotton drying department. This building is isolated, consequently the rest of the great plant suffered only from flying fragments of masonry and steel. No reason for the explosion has been established.

The Aetna plant here is a product of the war. It is manufacturing for the British and French governments. Growth of the plant on account of war orders added about 5,000 to the population of Emporium. Constant patrols of guards have been maintained at the explosive works since the war orders caused their enlargement.

Children Exhibit Potatoes and School Work at Clintondale.

At 9 o'clock the children began to arrive at the Clintondale school house. They came from Silva, Modena, Plattekill, Tucker's Corners, Ardonia, The Valley, Meadow Heights and other places in the township. Some came in buggies, some in stages, others in automobiles. It was no uncommon sight to see a wagon containing a dozen children with their teachers, accompanied with an extra wagon filled with school work, consisting of lawn benches, boats, canoes, rag carpet, raffia work, needle work, basketry, aprons, the work of the pupils' industrial work.

The potato exhibit was splendid. There were so many varieties and kinds and the competition was so great. It was a difficult matter for the judges to decide whose exhibits were the best under the rules.

At noon all ate their lunches, coffee and fruit was served by the children of the Clintondale school under the direction of Principal Burton and Isadora Livingston, his assistant. About three hundred and fifty persons sat down at lunch.

EDMOND GENET KILLED IN BATTLE

A despatch from the western battlefield in Europe states that a number of Americans have been killed in the fierce fighting in Champagne and among the number Edmond C. C. Genet of New York, a grandson of Governor George Clinton.

During the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of Kingston when the body of Governor Clinton was brought to Kingston and reinterred in the graveyard surrounding the First Dutch Church it will be remembered by many Kingstonians that it was through Edmond Genet that permission was granted for the removal to this city of the body. And through the efforts of Benjamin Brink and others who were interested in the welfare of Kingston the permission was granted.

At the time of his death Genet was fighting in the second battalion of the First Regiment in the Foreign Legion with a number of prominent Americans, a number of whom were either killed or are missing. After an assault on the German second line on September 23 but 180 men survived of the second battalion.

BARONESS DE BECKENDORF DELIVERED WARRIOR HUSBAND WILL RETURN SAFELY.

Baroness de Beckendorf, Playing Golf on Roof of the Biltmore Hotel, New York.

New York, Oct. 7.—Despite the fact that she has not heard from her husband, Lieut. Baron de Beckendorf, since he left to join his cavalry regiment in the Russian army in July, the Baroness, who before her marriage was Miss Gertrude Barrett, an actress, is optimistically pursuing her daily health preservation schedule and declaring that her nobleman husband will return safe and sound at the end of the war.

Yesterday the Baroness played golf over the miniature course in the Italian gardens on the roof of the Biltmore Hotel.

"Worried about my husband?" she said. "Of course I am worried. Why shouldn't I be. Isn't he at the front in the most terrible war in history? But what good am I doing him by pining away? I have faith. I believe he will escape death and return to me. Maybe he has been wounded or made prisoner and cannot get a letter to me. But I am still optimistic."

The Baroness's health schedule includes a morning tub of icy water in which cakes of ice float about. She has the ice delivered every morning at 8, takes her plunge and is ready for her game of golf or other outdoor exercise at 9.

The Baroness is a native of Covington, Kentucky, and is a daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Orr, of Woodlawn, Ohio.

WHO OWNS THE FARM?

Queer Legal Tangle Revealed by Suit to Recover Rent.

An interesting real estate tangle is involved in the action brought by Joseph M. Fowler, as agent and legal representative of Frederick Gleiforst and Chris Fischer, to recover $50 rent from Mr. and Mrs. Philip Schmitt, of the Boulevard. The action was noted for trial on Wednesday in city court before Acting City Judge Andrew Lang and has been adjourned to October 13. Mr. Fowler appeared in person and John T. Cahill represented the Schmitts.

According to the papers the action is brought to recover for one month's rent for a farm located on the Boulevard, just outside the city limits. The plaintiffs claim that they purchased the farm from Bertha Hoffman and that a deed conveying the property to them was filed in the county clerk's office the latter part of July of this year. The Schmitts were in possession of the farm at the time and still retain possession as tenants under an agreement of leasing under which they were to pay $50 a month rent for the farm. This rent has not been paid since July 24 of this year, and when demand was made for it the Schmitts refused to pay.

The Schmitts in their answer deny that they have any knowledge of the plaintiffs owning the farm and claim that the sale was fraudulent. They acknowledge that a paper purporting to convey the property from Bertha Hoffman to the plaintiffs is on file in the county clerk's office, but claim that she did not own the property.

The question of jurisdiction is also raised. The Schmitts also deny any agreement as to their leasing the farm of either Bertha Hoffman or the plaintiffs.

WILSON WEDDING AT BRIDE'S HOME

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 7.—President Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, widow of the owner of a big Washington jewelry establishment, will be married within the next two months. The wedding will take place in the home of the bride to be, at 1308 Twentieth street, and will be an extremely quiet affair, only a few relatives and the most intimate friends being present.

The time and place of the wedding while not officially announced, became known today. Mrs. Galt decided on where the wedding was to be held. The president, it was known, desired a very quiet affair, but he deferred entirely to his fiancée's wishes and left the decision to her. Mrs. Galt confided her desire to the president today that the wedding take place at her home and that it be very quiet. The exact date has not been decided but it is known that the wedding will be held within two months. It is thought that early in December will be the time settled upon later.

All Washington discussed nothing but the president's coming wedding today. Overnight Mrs. Galt had become the most prominent figure in the capital. She was besieged by callers today but she denied herself to everyone except the most intimate friends.

What Others Think of Godowsky.

The London Globe in commenting on the piano playing of Leopold Godowsky says in part: "Godowsky is a virtuoso who has very few equals. He is undoubtedly one of the greatest living pianists, and nothing that he does is uninteresting."

The critic of the New York Tribune wrote of his recent performance in New York: "The rhythmic crispness and grace of his reproduction of the old music are its exquisite beauty of melodic line tone could scarcely be overpraised."

According to the New York Herald, "Godowsky gave an exhibition of piano playing that will long be remembered. So far as technical difficulties are concerned they seem not to exist at all for this artist. His runs are of amazing clarity, whether they are simple scales, runs in thirds or octaves. They fairly purr from his finger tips. Impressive poise and clearness mark his work throughout as well as virility. The enthusiasm of the audience grew with each number."

Mr. Godowsky is a phenomenal pianist.

GOOD BEERS

THE average consumption of beer is greater than tea, coffee, milk, soft drinks or any other beverage known to mankind. It contains the most food value. The temperate use of such fine brews as has no ill effect. They are beverages of absolute purity. Their use or abuse is optional with the consumer and they contain only about 3 per cent of alcohol. On the average all other stimulating drinks are 15 times stronger than beer in alcoholic contents.

THÜRINGER HOFBRÄU
AND THE RIPE

CLASSIS OF ULSTER.

Fall Session Held Tuesday in Katsbaan Church.

The Classis of Ulster met in the Katsbaan Reformed Church, Tuesday, October 5th. Rev. J. L. Leeper, D. D., of Kingston, became president and Rev. C. Van Oostenbrugge of Ulster Park, temporary clerk. The president then appointed the following committees:

On the State of Religion—Rev. G. W. Gulick, Rev. J. L. Leeper, D. D. (ex-officio) and Elder S. S. Sager. On Overtures and Judicial Business—Rev. W. F. Stowe, D. D., Rev. C. H. Polhemus and Elder Virgil Britt.

On Vacant Congregations—Rev. J. V. Wemple, Rev. H. W. Brink and Elder W. S. Eltinge. The pastoral relation between the Rev. John Muyskens and the Port Ewen church was dissolved that he might accept a call to the Piermont church.

Rev. J. V. Wemple reported as chairman of the standing committee on vacant churches, and arrangements were made to supply those fields.

Assessments amounting to two hundred dollars for expenses of Classis and Synods were paid during the day and an assessment of one hundred dollars was laid for the spring meeting which is to be in the new church at West Hurley.

Rev. C. H. Polhemus reported as chairman of the delegates to Particular Synod.

Rev. G. W. Gulick reported as chairman of the delegates to General Synod.

The special committee appointed to draft a suitable statement of respect and sympathy for our permanent clerk in the death of his honored father reported.

The death of Benjamin M. Brink means an irreparable loss. The splendid contribution which he made to church, to society in general and to historical research in particular, is one to be proud of and rarely excelled. He had no peer in a knowledge of the history of Ulster county, its early families and settlers. He was a man of humble spirit, of simple habits, of patient, accurate methods of research, and of a Christian faith. Mr. Brink served in many capacities with efficiency and always in the spirit of self-sacrifice. He was a member of the Katsbaan Reformed Church and served as an elder for a long period, and also as superintendent of the Sunday school for years. For several years he was treasurer of the Classis of Ulster and at his death he was custodian of the old Senate House at Kingston. Perhaps his most distinguished service was rendered as author and editor, writing the history of Saugerties, editing "Old Ulster," and in his untiring work in the research of old records. His services along these lines are indeed signal, giving Mr. Brink a place in the history of the county of Ulster that is indelible. The removal of Benjamin M. Brink from the scenes of earthly activity incurs a loss very closely identified with the Classis of Ulster in view of the fact that he was, out more especially because our permanent clerk is most sincerely bereaved in the death of his honored and beloved father. The committee would therefore record our high esteem for Mr. Brink and our appreciation of his signal service, and would extend our profound sympathy to our permanent clerk, the Rev. Henry W. Brink, in the bereavement of his esteemed father.

The Classis adjourned for dinner, which was served in the lecture room by the ladies of the Katsbaan church.

During the intermission, the members enjoyed the beauty and location of the ancient church, among the still older oaks which surround it on the magnificent hilltop, and studied the inscriptions chiseled on the outer and inner walls.

Rev. G. W. Gulick, the retiring president, preached on "Providence."

The churches were represented as follows: Blue Mountain, Elder H. W. DuBois, Church of the Comfort, Kingston, Rev. W. F. Stowe, D. D., and S. S. Sager; Ulster Park, Rev. C. Van Oostenbrugge and Elder George Eckert; Flatbush, Rev. Gerrit Wyckoff, F. D., and Elder Thomas Ketterston; Bay Gould Memorial, Roxbury, Elder Otis P. More; Katsbaan, Rev. A. J. Sebring and Elder Luther Myer; Kingston, Rev. J. L. Leeper, D. D., and Elder William S. Eltinge; Port Ewen, Rev. John Muyskens and Elder Virgil Britt; Mt. Marion, Elder Jesse A. Myer; Saugerties, Rev. J. V. Wemple and Elder William S. Myer; Sandaken, Elder William S. Winne; Shokan, Rev. G. W. Gulick and Elder Ogden Dunagan; Woodstock, Rev. H. W. Brink and Elder Sheldon Casenburgh; Rev. S. T. Cole and Rev. C. H. Polhemus, without charge of church.

After the local business, the outside benevolence of the churches were considered.

Dr. J. L. Leeper, Rev. J. V. Wemple and Dr. W. F. Stowe were appointed a committee to arrange for missionary conferences with Classis of Kingston.

Rev. G. W. Gulick, as agent for Education, called for students for the ministry.

William S. Myer, as agent for Disabled Ministers and Widows, reported the money received and the number aided.

Rev. John Muyskens, for Publication and Young People's Work, urged that efforts be made to evangelize the young people.

Rev. C. Van Oostenbrugge, for Synodical Benevolence, recommended that each church form a yearly budget.

Rev. William Sinclair was elected agent for Temperance.

Rev. W. F. Stowe, D. D., was elected agent to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Muyskens's resignation.

Rev. J. L. Leeper, D. D., was re-elected trustee of classis for three years.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Oct. 7.—The Ladies' Auxiliary Club held a busy and most pleasant session last Friday afternoon in M. E. Church parlors, where Mrs. Smedes, Mrs. Auchmoody, Miss A. Terwilliger and Miss Adah Van Nostrand were the hostesses. This club is asserting its right to first place in this village. There were over forty present and several guests. One new member was taken in, Miss Frazier, who is a fine church worker. The club had the honor and pleasure of the presence of Miss Wing, the evangelistic singer, who delighted all during the social hour with vocal selections. The request the month before for donations of canned fruit was met and over sixty cans were sent to the M. E. deaconess home in New York city. These favors were greatly appreciated by the president, Mrs. R. H. Decker, and the people at the home were more than delighted. It seems the members of this club are always heart and soul ready to do good. The meeting was brim full of business and the hostesses spared no pains to make the afternoon enjoyable, for at the close of the work the members and guests just had a most pleasant social and very choice dinner, tastefully and artistically served, proved to satisfy the hunger of all and when the time came for departure all decided that it was a good thing for once in a month to lay aside home cares and duties and spend the afternoon at the club, for there is not a moment of time dragging there. There will be plenty of business later on. The ladies are all very anxious now to work for the fair. After discussions on many subjects the ladies began to realize time was making rapid strides and long after dark they left to look after their families with pleasant memories of the meeting and the good accomplished.

Order of O. E. S. of this place had the degree "Queen of the South" conferred upon four candidates on Monday evening by the degree team of Vassar Chapter, Poughkeepsie. There were over 100 present. The work was exemplified nicely. The room was decorated with flowers and looked attractive and very home-like. Everything passed off in a manner satisfactory to all concerned. At the conclusion of work all enjoyed a social time and partook of the bountiful repast provided by the chapter members for which Highland is noted.

All were grateful to Vassar Chapter for the courtesy and many expressions of pleasure were given for the grand support of all members as fall work is resumed and we trust that renewed strength has come to all by a happy vacation and that every one may be more enthusiastic in chapter work as time goes on. At a late hour all returned to their homes, well pleased with the evening's work.

People listened to the suffrage speaker Monday evening. The lady was from Montana. She is a lawyer and a shrewd one we think. There was also a man who spoke on the subject. These people pleased Kingston crowds last week. Many were pleased with the speeches made here and these things will perhaps help.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carpenter had as their guests Sunday Dr. and Mrs. Howard Carpenter and young son of Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Schoonmaker entertained recently Mr. and Mrs. E. Schoonmaker from New Paltz.

Charles Carpenter has been enjoying a short vacation but is now ready to wait on customers at the store of J. W. Feeter.

Jarvis Hockstetter, who has been in the telephone office here, has now come to Poughkeepsie to learn dressmaking and take advantage of a night school.

Mrs. Byron Clearwater, W. M. of Highland Chapter, O. E. S., will attend grand session to be held in New York from October 12th to 14th.

Prayer meetings this week held four mornings at different homes have been well attended. We hear the tabernacle services will close next Sunday. They have all been well attended. People will feel kindly after it. For some of this place have been kept on the go morning, afternoon and evening. Sermon have been fine, giving facts and truths which so many never like to hear. The lady and gentleman, who have been prominent singers, certainly have delighted everyone.

Importance of Rest for Baby

The importance of rest for a baby is so obvious that it would seem superfluous to deal with it at all, and yet experience among the babies of well-to-do parents proves that in a very great number of cases progress is retarded and perfect health marred simply for want of rest.

A baby who does not sleep well is really an anomaly, and yet a remarkable number of cases come under one's notice where this is the case. It is hard very often to trace this state of things to its cause.

Many children undoubtedly inherit nervous tendencies in these days; nervous mothers have often nervous babies and as their influence is the potent one in the early days as well, it is usually in an environment calculated to further enhance nervousness in which the little finds itself.

Apart from natural tendencies, too, present day life, in towns anyway, is distinctly exciting to a baby. The quick movement of motor traffic outdoors, the brilliancy of electric light indoors—all mark a very different state of things to the old days of leisurely movement and candles. The sudden switching on and off of a light at night is in itself disturbing or stimulating to a baby, and as it has to be come accustomed to such things it is only common sense to reduce other reasons of excitement to the minimum.

For this reason, as a rule, a baby should not be played with often, should not have things rattled at it or dangled before its eyes. The more near to a reasonable existence the early days are passed in, speaking generally, the better for the child.

Then the room in which the baby sleeps must be well ventilated, but so secure from drafts. And here may be mentioned the advantage of placing the baby's cot away from the nurse's or mother's bed. "Alongside" has become almost a universal rule, but the result is that the child is breathing air more or less contaminated by the grown up person, more especially as the necessity of safeguarding the child from drafts means that a free current of air is, and rightly, absent.

In winter time, when the wicked microbe of the common cold is abroad in the land, the arrangement will have the further benefit of safeguarding the small person from infection to a remarkable degree. It is perilously easy to lean over to a cot alongside at every whimper or movement, to continue night feeding and otherwise disturb the long hours of rest which are so beneficial—nay, indispensable—to the progress and good condition of the child; but it is quite another thing when it necessitates getting up, and the child is more likely to have a chance of long, unbroken hours of rest without being deliberately taught to wake at intervals. Of course, if a baby is ill or anything is the matter it is another thing.

No baby should be rocked or "pat" to sleep. The baby should be laid down warm and dry, with every care to each detail of its comfort, well fed and shaded from any light, even from the first day, and so accustomed to go to sleep unheeded and unrocked. Sometimes it will be awakened suddenly—possibly by some noise or exterior influence, possible for a cause which can not be determined; do not immediately take the child up, even if it is crying, although it is the ordinary instinct to do so—but simply turn it over in its cot, soothing it with soft words as you do so and giving it a teaspoonful or so of cold water if it appears hungry; this simple process, carried on in the dark or in the same subdued light which obtained before will in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred induce the little one to go straight off to sleep again.

Of course a baby should be laid to sleep on its side in alternate positions each night, and care should be taken that the little ear is laid flat and not crumpled.

During the first two months of life a healthy, well managed baby will sleep almost all the time, waking only at the regular feeding times when probably a cry will give notice of the fact. Once in the third month, however, it is allowed a lusty fit of crying, so that the lungs may be well expanded, and good exercise given generally. The time when sleep should be least encouraged is in the late hours of the day, as by that means a sounder and longer sleep is induced at night.

At six months old two thirds of the day of twenty-four hours should be spent in sleep, which means that sixteen hours is the proper time. This should be continued until the first birthday, when a couple of hours less suffices, ten hours being devoted to the waking time. This fourteen hours sleep is needed by children until they are five years old, after which about two hours may be knocked off which means practically in many cases dropping the sleep by day and having only the long night of twelve hours, and after the seventh birthday still another hour may be stolen from night for day.

Keeping Ham Mount.

Ham may be kept from getting hard and dry on the outside thus. Take some of the fat part and fry it out. Let it get hard; then spread it on the end of the ham half an inch thick. This excludes air. Hang in a cool place. Before slicing the ham scrape off this fat and spread it on afterward as before.

The Voracious Cormorant.

How a cormorant dives for sea trout and gets them is told by a writer. "I had the cormorant under observation only for the space of four or five minutes, and during that short period it had captured four sea trout, one of considerable size. After being under water for a few seconds the bird would reappear with a sea trout wriggling in its bill. But in spite of the victim's desperate efforts to escape it was deftly swallowed, and after a few gulps the cormorant would resume its fishing operations. One of the sea trout gave it considerable trouble, however, for the fish struggled violently for some moments, but was deftly placed so that its head pointed down its captor's throat, and thus its own struggles assisted the bird to swallow it."

Early History of Rubber.

Rubber is first known to history as a plaything. It was during Columbus' second voyage that Herrera observed that the inhabitants of Haiti played a game with balls "made of the gum of a tree." Even as early as the beginning of the seventeenth century, however, the Spaniards used rubber to waterproof their cloaks, but the fact attracted no attention in the old world, and it was not until the eighteenth century that the rubber industry began. Early writers mention an oil extracted from rubber which was taken medicinally with cocoa.

But Two Known Roads.

There are only two roads by which an important goal can be reached—sheer strength and perseverance—Goethe.

LADY CONSTANCE AND SIR EDWARD RICHARDSON

LADY RICHARDSON'S HUSBAND SLAIN IN THE WAR.

New York, Oct. 7.—News has reached this country that one of the latest victims of the war is Sir Edward Austin Stewart Richardson, husband of Lady Constance Stewart Richardson, who cast aside the traditions of British aristocracy, to which she belonged, to make public dancing her profession.

Sir Edward, who was a Scotch baronet and a captain in the "Black Watch," was at the front in France and was wounded in the recent drive of the British forces against the German positions in Flanders. He died of his wounds.

He was born in 1872 and married Lady Constance, a daughter of the late Earl of Cromartie and a sister of the present Countess of Cromartie, in 1904. As Lady Constance MacKenzie she was well known as an athlete and for her keen interest in all kinds of sports, as well as for her eccentricities.

She gave up athletics for dancing and caused much comment at the beginning of her professional career by appearing in an English music hall in a barefoot dance. Afterwards she appeared in the United States giving the same dance.

THE COCKPIT IN THE BALKANS.

This map of Bulgaria and the adjoining territory shows the points where Bulgaria may strike at Serbia and the points at which the allies may attack Bulgaria. A is Varna, the principal Bulgarian port, off which a Russian fleet is now lying. At B and C Bulgarian troops are massed and at D there is a powerful allied army.

Distinctly Northern Bird

The world's migrating champion, according to Prof. Cooke, is the arctic tern. It is as far north as land has been discovered and a bird can find anything stable in which to build its nest. A nest of this bird has been found within seven and one-half dea wall of new snow that had been

The Dawn of a New Baking Day

ABOUT a year ago, two men came out of the offices of this country's largest and most successful chemists. They each carried a half dozen pound packages. Each went to his wife and said: "Here is a new baking powder, please try it and see how you like it." The wives tried it in biscuit and cake, and were amazed at a new kind of lightness and fineness, something they had never experienced before. They tried again and again, with exactly the same results.

The remaining cans were sent to friends and relatives. They were asked to try the new powder. Results were astonishing. Here were now twelve women who had tried the new powder each in her own individual way and each of them had a surprise in discovering new degrees of goodness in baking.

They sent cans of the new powder to friends and relatives in the South—the land of wonderful cooks—to New England and a half dozen different cities. Word began to come back: "What magic powder is this you have sent? We never before have seen or heard of such light and wholesome baking."

Tried and approved by experts

Then samples were sent to half a dozen of the most famous cooking experts—women whose names are household words—whose "say-so" is authority on baking the land over. They were asked to try it out and say unreservedly what they thought.

The replies were half a dozen letters saying that this powder gave unusually good results. Lightness, perfect baking, golden brown biscuit and cakes—and never a single failure.

Finally, this new baking powder was sent to one of the food authorities of the country—one who has been active in improving the nation's food supply. He was asked to give his opinion of it. He wrote: "RYZON has a tendency to restore to bread made with white flour some of the original elements contained in the whole wheat; it has qualities of excellence and physiological relations which entitle it to the confidence and patronage of the public."

GENERAL CHEMICAL CO.
FOOD DEPARTMENT
NEW YORK

Years of scientific research work, confirmed by this approval, are back of RYZON the Perfect Baking Powder.

You will find RYZON, beginning today, at your grocer's, or if he has not yet ordered, you will find it at a grocer's nearby.

Madam, you are a cook—in a way, you are a chemist. You value the appetizing quality of the foods you serve and you are also deeply interested in their wholesomeness. Therefore, you will naturally ask the question

What is it that makes RYZON bakings different?

In answer to which, let us just say this: RYZON is a strictly American pure-food product. It is composed only of elements about which there is no question as to their healthfulness. It is a stronger powder and is so prepared as to retain its strength. It will produce baking results that are always the same in delightful quality.

RYZON is made by the General Chemical Company of New York, which numbers among its members and in its staff some of the most eminent men in chemistry. Men whom the scientific bodies of foreign lands have considered it a privilege to honor.

This company has for years been producing the elements that the foremost baking powder manufacturers use, and therefore has been in a position to study the baking-powder subject and make the improvements that the food authorities of this country have been calling for.

Most women have bought certain kinds of baking powder for years because of habit. Perhaps you use a certain kind because your mother did—because you have always used it. Don't let prejudice stop you from trying RYZON. It will open your eyes to—

A new degree of baking goodness

The General Chemical Company already has a very large, fast-growing, and unusually successful business without manufacturing baking powder, but it takes pride in having solved the baking-powder problem, and deems it a public service to supply RYZON.

Furthermore, it offers RYZON with an unqualified guarantee of absolute purity, healthfulness and general superiority. Back of this the General Chemical Company places, as an endorsement, its world-wide reputation for scientific accomplishments. Every grocer and distributing agent for RYZON is authorized to refund without question the entire purchase price to every person who buys a can of RYZON and is not entirely satisfied with it in every particular.

RYZON comes in 3 sizes:
¾-lb. tin, 10c; ½-lb. tin, 18c; 1-lb. tin, 35c

OVERCOME BY GAS.

Narrow Escape of Three Persons From Fatal Results.

Mrs. Charles Witthoft and her two children of No. 42 First avenue, had a narrow escape from fatal asphyxiation from illuminating gas at their home several days ago.

The Witthoft family resides in a two family house on First avenue, occupying the upper floor. The family residing on the first floor heard someone attempt to move around one of the rooms and then fall heavily to the floor. A few minutes later they heard another heavy fall, and went upstairs. The door to the Witthoft apartments was locked, but they smelled illuminating gas, and broke open the door.

The members of the family were lying on the floor and were unconscious. Dr. John G. O'Leary was summoned and after some time succeeded in resuscitating the family, who have now fully recovered from the effects of the gas.

It is thought that in turning out the light before retiring, some member of the family turned the gas cock too far, as it was found to be partly open and of the variety which can be turned all the way around.

Let the Kingstonian Make Your House a HOME

Yes that's just what we said. Let the Kingstonian make your house a HOME.

Certainly, no place is homelike where everyone is grouchy and chilly every time the mercury goes below normal; and the boiler, no matter how you force it, seems to be fast asleep.

It makes mother and the youngsters uncomfortable; endangers baby's health and causes dad to pass remarks under his breath.

A Kingstonian Boiler hooked up to your heating system will give you the right heat all the time. There isn't a bit of doubt about that. The heat will be evenly distributed and kept at that cozy temperature that gives to every nook and corner that snug comfy feeling which makes home feel like the good place it is.

Start the atmosphere of cheerfulness now by announcing your intention to look at the Kingstonian the next time you are near our store. If you haven't time to drop in to see us, let us drop in to see you.

N. D. J. MURPHY FILES $17,680 CLAIM

Nicholas D. J. Murphy, whose account is administrator of the estate of his father, John J. Murphy, is being contested in the surrogate's court by other members of the family. Today filed a claim against his father's estate for $17,680, which he claims is the balance due him for services.
Mr. Murphy's claim covers the period from April 1, 1914, to April 1, 1915, at $25 per week, and is for services rendered to his father during his lifetime in the business of general director. The total amount of the claim therefore is $22,100, on which Mr. Murphy claims there has been paid to him a sum not to exceed $4,420, leaving a balance due him of $17,680. He asks that the claim be determined by Surrogate Gill on the present accounting.
Another hearing was to have been had in the surrogate's court today on the contested accounting, but the matter was adjourned for one week. Former City Judge N. Frank O'Reilly is attorney for Mr. Murphy; Cunningham & Traver are attorneys for the contestants.

BENJAMIN LAMME.

MEMBER OF NAVAL ADVISORY BOARD.

Benjamin G. Lamme of Pittsburgh, who has been appointed a member of the Naval Advisory Board, headed by the Hon. C. D. Brown, was at his first meeting October 6. Mr. Lamme was proposed by the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Mr. Lamme has been a leader in the development of alternating current apparatus, including the induction motor, polyphase generators, rotary converters and single phase railway apparatus. He was also a pioneer in developing the first direct current apparatus for railway lighting and power work. He is now chief engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company in Pittsburgh.

Cruckshank Estate Appraised.

County Treasurer Snyder, as appraiser under the taxable transfer act, has filed his report of appraisal of the estate of James Cruckshank of the town of Shandaken. The estate consists of personal property amounting to $173,732.83; the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amount to $3,851.67, leaving a net estate of $169,881.16, on which the state inheritance tax amounts to $1,135.47. The executors are Elizabeth J. Cruckshank, James Harmon Cruckshank and Robert Fraser Cruckshank, who were represented by William H. Brady of New York city; Joseph H. Vandervort appeared for the state comptroller.

Old Guard to Organize.

The Old Guard Association of Ulster County will effect a permanent organization at the armory Friday evening at 8 o'clock, when the proposed bylaws will come up for adoption and officers will be elected. Other important business also will be transacted. It is hoped that a parade and speaker will be given the following week. Any former member of the National Guard is eligible for membership and a large attendance is expected.

Bicycles on Sidewalks.

The riding of bicycles on the sidewalks is a growing nuisance of which complaint repeatedly has been made. In view of the fact that the court of appeals has held that a city is liable for injuries sustained by anyone injured by a sidewalk bicycle rider, entirely regardless of the question of negligence, it might be well to have this practice stopped.

Painted in Trolley Car.

Miss Mamie Hines of Port Ewen was seized with a fainting spell this noon on a trolley car on Hasbrouck avenue and was taken to Johnston's drug store on the Strand when she was revived. Miss Hines is employed in the paint factory of Lyons-Koller-Lieberman Company on Prince street.

NEW HIRELY.

New Hirely, Oct. 7.—The "Carroll" will meet at the home of C. Ira Thompson on Tuesday evening, October 13, instead of October 12, as previously announced. Election of officers will take place, and all young people are invited to come. It is a very best night.

INDIANA OBSERVES POET'S BIRTHDAY.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 7.—All Indiana is observing "Riley Day" today, in honor of the birthday of the celebrated poet, James Whitcomb Riley. A huge music festival is being given in his honor here this afternoon, and many noted literary lights are among those present. Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice-president in the celebration here, and Meredith Nicholson, George Ade, Booth Tarkington, Will Fortune, George Hitt and other noted Indiana writers are helping along with the good time, which will come to a close with a dinner at the Claypool Hotel this evening.

William Allen White, Walt Mason, Dr. John H. Finley, Senator Beveridge, Senator Kern and Governor Kaestgen will attend.

Mr. Riley, with the simplicity which is more than half the charm of his lyrics, refused to divulge the number of birthdays that he has passed.

Do Champion Athletes Die Young?

From opinions collected from men prominent in the athletic world, among them several doctors and surgeons who have given the subject special study, it may be concluded that the average man can play baseball, tennis and basketball with safety until he is forty. After that age these more vigorous games become a little dangerous, even to the man in good physical condition. At forty-five, most of the experts agree, golf, croquet, handball, volleyball and medicine ball are more fitting and certainly safer pastimes. The United States public health service discloses some of the more violent forms of sport, such as rowing, for instance, even for young men. Long distance running, jumping and pole vaulting also are considered extremely exhausting by its experts. It declares, in short, that "champion athletes die young."—Boston Herald.

A Short Lived Island.

In 1867 a new shoal was discovered in the group of the Tonga or Friendly Islands. In 1877 smoke was seen over the shoal. In 1886 the shoal had become a volcanic island more than two miles long and 240 feet high, and a fierce eruption was taking place within it. In 1886 the island had begun to shrink in dimensions. In 1890 its height had diminished one-half, and the ocean close around it was more than a mile deep. In 1892 the island rose only about twenty-six feet above sea level, and in 1898, under the action of the waves, its complete disappearance was reported.

The Safety First Critic.

"Brown is a very careful critic, isn't he?"
"In what way?"
"He always manages to take the sting out of his unfavorable comment."
"For instance?"
"His bride made him a shortcake the other day, and when she asked him how he liked it he replied, 'It isn't as good as your mother used to make.'"
—Detroit Free Press

Birds and Lightning.

Birds are sometimes struck by lightning. Darwin records the case of a wild duck that he saw struck by a bolt while flying. It was killed instantly and fell to the ground. But birds seem to know instinctively that lightning is to be feared. That perhaps is why they seek shelter in thunderstorms. The sudden disappearance of the birds is, indeed, in the country one of the surest signs of an approaching tempest.

Italics.

Italics are letters formed after the Roman model, but sloping toward the right, used to emphasize words or sentences. They were first used about 1500 A. D. by Manthius, a Venetian printer, who dedicated them to the Italian states; hence the name.

Just the Man.

First Artist—Well, old chap, how is business? Second Artist—Oh, splendid! Got a commission this morning from a millionaire. Wants his wife and children painted very badly. First Artist—Well, you're the very man to do that. Exchange.

Rather.

"I don't believe the woman who has the next apartment to mine ever touches her parlor carpet."
"My dear, that's a sweeping statement!"
—Baltimore American.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHS.

How a Man Talks When He Shows Them to a Friend.

Here's the way the average man shows his little book of amateur photographs to a friend:
"This is supposed to be my wife, but it ain't very good. Let's see the next one. Well, that's the baby, but the sun was wrong. On this page is a family group. I took it myself, and it would be a good picture if three of 'em hadn't moved. Oh, yes! Here's one my wife took of me. Looks like the dickens, don't it? She ain't used to the camera, but notice how I'm grinning."
"And if you see what a good background I'm posed in? I'd just got back from the office, and she just had one film left and thought she might as well snap me and finish up the roll—you see, I didn't have time to comb my hair or—what? Why, the one on the next page is a freak thing my next door neighbor snapped, showing his baby falling out of an upstairs window. Not much good—he didn't have a good light, and the baby was falling too fast to be quite in focus. Now, here's another one of me—my wife never could get the hang of the camera, but people say the wink is natural. I had quite a bunch of 'em printed because she wanted 'em to give around. Oh, those pictures are pretty fair. We took them at the lakes. There's people you don't know in 'em, and you'll hardly be interested. Well, hey, Mary, what's become of that one with me in it? I wish you'd keep all these pictures together. You monkey with this book till all the best ones get lost out!"

"Well, I guess the rest won't interest you. We keep 'em because they're good souvenirs. Lot of my wife's friends posed in the grand canyon, and such. A professional photographer don't get the personal touches that make these snapshot pictures nice to keep. Now, just take that one of me you saw back there. It's not much good as a likeness, but they tell me there's something characteristic about it—what? Why turn back? It's on page 3."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MUSIC AS A MEDICINE.

Ragtime For the Melancholy, Chopin For Overstrung Nerves.

The effects of music upon the health—well known ever since David harped to Saul, but hitherto ill understood—are being looked into more deeply by the physicians who form the National Society of Musical Therapeutics.

"No matter to what extent music may restore a person to the normal," says the New York Medical Journal, "there can be no question that it may help other influences to incline the person from the normal. There are many compositions, notably among those by Chopin, which are the outcome of more or less melancholy moods, and while they are beautiful and harmless to the healthy, when made a steady diet and source of self-consolation by those suffering from depression from mental or bodily causes their effect is undoubtedly pernicious. Just as a too exclusive diet of olives or meringues would depress the general bodily condition and mental atmosphere of a person so indulging a sickly appetite."

On the other hand, ragtime music, "being in no wise repressed," is the reverse of depressing. "The African jingles of the present day create an emotional atmosphere of restlessness and excitement which is typically American and which is opposed to health only so far as our national restlessness and lack of poise tend to make us a people whose national disease is nervous exhaustion."
Roughly speaking, lively music, such as ragtime, is likely to rouse depressed persons from their melancholy. Sad and pathetic music will soothe the excitable and hypernervous.

Turtle Eggs.

Turtle eggs are an acquired taste with most people; although they are not so with bears. They have a rough yellow yolk and a white like any other egg, but you can cook them for a year and the white part will remain liquid. Notice a curious dimple in the side of each one. If you squeeze it out the dimple appears on the other side, and you can never get hold of a turtle egg which hasn't got a dimple in it.

Distribution.

"The question of distribution is one of the most serious of our time," remarked the ponderous man.
"It is," replied Miss Carenne. "There is no telling what may happen to the simplest statement of innocent fact after it has been passed around by the gossip."—Washington Star.

That Made a Difference.

Dick—He married. Did he? Well, some fellows don't know when they're well off. Jack—Well, in this case he knew the girl was well off.—Boston Journal.

Make each day a critic on the last.

Pope.

Not Paint

The worst mistake in painting is not putting off. That costs about 10 per cent; you keep your money a year and pay 10 per cent for it.

Paint would have to come down 25 per cent to make 10 per cent on the job, for wages do not go down.

The worst mistake is "cheap" paint. It costs from 30 per cent to 100, first cost, and another in wear.

What a far "cheap" is! "Put off" is bad enough; "cheap" is ten times worse.

Sandwich's Wonderful Drum.

The eccentric Lord Sandwich had, according to his biographer, a strange passion for the thunder of big drums, for the gratification of which passion he had caused the entire side of one large music room in his mansion at Hinchinbrook to be covered with parchment, so that when it was struck with a massive stick it gave out a roar sufficient to terrify any sensitive soul. Many who heard this drum once struck positively declined ever to enter the apartment again lest they should be given a second performance.—St. Louis Republic.

Many of the tremendous sums annually invested in advertising are wasted because the copy is not made by a professional writer. ## MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke).

New York, Oct. 7.—Luck always has been the mightiest factor in deciding a world series combat—and luck will probably figure largely in the Red Sox-Phillies' duel.

Statistics covering past performances show only what a team and what the individuals should do in a series—they never have shown and never will show what the men actually will do. World series games always have furnished surprises and startling upsets of the dope—and they have been caused by the dabbings of Fate by the smiles and frowns of Fortune.

Baseball, the old boys tell us, is 40 per cent skill and 60 per cent luck. Which team will have the luck which will get the "breaks" of the game? Answer those questions and you've named the certain winner of the series.

The "dope" created by a perusal of the past performances of the contending teams, shows that Alexander ought to outpitch every other hurler in the classic battle. But will he? Past performances say he ought to—but that is no criterion for world series conduct.

The "dope" says the Phillies should outslug the Red Sox and the Sox ought to outpitch the Phillies. But the old "dope" may get a jolt. Fate may twist things.

Pre-series Dope Means Little.

World series combatants rarely play true to regular season form. Men who have been figured to star, to be a tower of strength, have fallen down miserably. Ty Cobb furnishes the best example of this. Others from whom almost nothing was expected have risen to great heights; have, by their wonderful achievements, clinched their title for their clubs. "Whitey" Rube, of the 1906 White Sox, is one example. "Hank" Gowdy, of the 1914 Braves, is another.

Fortune smiled upon the Braves in 1914—and the Braves won. It smiled on the Red Sox in 1912—and they won. It smiled on the 1906 White Sox, on the 1911 Athletics—and they won.

Those teams got the "breaks;" and it was because they got the "breaks" that they became the baseball champions of the universe.

"Hank" Gowdy's world series accomplishments stand out as one case where the "dope" went awry. Before the series "Hank" wasn't figured as a slagger. He didn't do any real slugging during the regular 1914 season nor has he done anything remarkable in the batting line this year.

Luck Was With Gowdy.

But Fortune smiled upon "Hank" during those four world series days in 1914 and "Hank" hit for the tremendous average of .545. He went to bat 11 times—and got six hits. Three of those were doubles, one was a triple and the other a homer. Every one of his extra base swats came exactly when it was needed—

"Hank's" clubbing feat always will rank as one of the greatest in world series history, but it must rank too as a bit of luck that an ordinary clubber should be able to connect with a slugging streak during the most critical period of his career.

In 1912 the Red Sox out-lucked the Giants—and the Red Sox won the baseball championship of the world. In the first seven games of the series the Red Sox got the "breaks"—and they also got them in that last game. You remember it, don't you? It was the last half of the ninth inning and the Giants were in the lead. The Red Sox went to bat and Engle sent a fly to Snodgrass. The Giants' outfielder didn't have to move for the ball. It was the easiest chance he had during the entire series. He put out his hands, the ball dropped into them—and out again. Snodgrass had made the "$30,000 muff"—and most ingenious foe of his career—and paved the way for the Red Sox rally that won the game—and the championship.

Frank Baker smote baseballs into the grandstands for two separate and distinct home runs in two of the world series game in 1911. Certainly Fortune smiled on Baker, because the Athletic slugger in those two games made as many home runs as he had averaged in every 35 or 40 regular season games.

And so it goes. Luck figures in every series and in every game and no matter what the "dope" tells you—no matter which team plays better baseball, it's a certainty that the team that gets the breaks is the team that will win the classic battle of baseball.

HOW TO PROTECT GARDEN FLOWERS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—At this season many inquiries come to the United States Department of Agriculture regarding the protection of garden plants and shrubs during the winter. Such flowers as peonies and hollyhocks will come up again the following year if they are properly protected during the winter, while others like cannas and dahlias, which are more accustomed to warm climates, must have their roots or bulbs dug up and stored in a cellar. The Department's specialists give the following suggestions for "putting the garden to bed."

Hardy Perennials.

Cover hardy perennials, such as peonies, larkspur, hollyhocks, columbines, iris, platycodon and perennial poppies, with a good coating of manure or other litter to a depth of 3 or 4 inches. In more southern localities this will hold the frost in the ground and keep the plant from alternately freezing and thawing; in more northern regions the manure will protect the plant from freezing to a depth that will cut off its water supply.

Cannas and Dahlias.

As soon as the tops of cannas, dahlias, gladioli, caladiums and similar plants are killed by frost, dig up the roots or bulbs and store them in a cellar where the temperature will remain at 55 degrees, and should never go below 50 or above 60 degrees. Do not shake any more earth from the clumps of cannas and dahlias than is necessary in removing them from the ground. Place the plants on racks or in flat boxes so the air may circulate freely through them. No frost must reach the roots nor must they become too warm or dry.

Hydrangeas.

Hydrangeas (semi-herbaceous) in the south will last through the winter out-of-doors, if properly cared for. The tops should be protected with straw or brush. This may be held in place about the bushes with a little manure or stones. The flower buds of the hydrangea form in the fall, and this cover will keep them from winter-killing while shielding the bush from winds and sun. In the north hydrangeas must be taken up, planted in tubs and placed in the cellar. This is generally true of latitudes north of Philadelphia.

The shrub known as brugnansia, also called thorn apple, should be treated as is the hydrangea, but they are not hardy nearly so far north.

As a rule shrubs should not be trimmed in the fall. This process is timely immediately after the blooming period, if this is in the spring, as in the case of the snowball. If the shrubs bloom in the fall, as do some hydrangeas, the rose of Sharon, and some lilacs, they should not be cut directly after blooming, but in the spring of the following year. Lilacs, snowballs and mock orange should be left alone during the winter, being neither trimmed nor covered with straw and manure.

Roses.

Almost all kinds of roses are hardy in the vicinities of Washington, D. C., and St. Louis and to the south of a line drawn between these points. From Washington northward local conditions influence the successful cultivation of certain varieties. Some roses, as the briar and rugosa, need no protection, but other varieties, such as the hybrid-perpetuals, teas, and hybrid-teas, need special care, particularly north of the fortieth parallel. Teas and hybrid teas hardly succeed in Chicago, although the hybrid-perpetuals grow as far north as Canada. All these classes do well on Long Island and in Boston near the sea when proper care is given them. These varieties in the vicinity of Washington need merely a little manure on the ground to prevent alternate freezing and thawing. Farther north, however, they should be treated as follows:

Cut the tops to within 30 inches of the ground. Cover the roots with coarse manure or leaves or similar litter. Hold this in place by evergreen boughs which also act as a protection. Brush from deciduous trees or shrubs may be substituted for the evergreen boughs except in the most northern regions.

Mounds of earth about six or eight inches in height should be drawn about the base of the rose bushes to keep them from mice. As an added protection against mice, permit the ground to freeze slightly before winter protection is supplied. In fact, roses should not be protected until after the first light freeze, which may be expected in Washington, D. C., about the first of December, but earlier farther north.

Climbing Roses.

In the latitude of Philadelphia and farther south climbing roses, usually need no protection during the winter unless they are a particularly tender variety. Farther north these roses need protection similar to that given to the tea and hybrid tea roses.

Where it is possible to do so, remove climbing roses from their supports, and cover the branches with a little dirt. A little fall trimming might be desirable to lessen the space occupied by the branches on the ground. Such side branches as are not to be needed for next season's blooming may be cut off. Such cutting off and shortening of the ends as would otherwise be done in the spring, may be done in the fall before covering, merely for convenience.

Think of Marigold as a Great Food

It is just that. Marigold is rich in protein, the element that builds flesh, and makes blood. Besides, it is a dainty, flavory-good spread for bread, for biscuits, for muffins. It puts the final appetizing touch into a baked potato, and it's just great on griddle-hot batter-cakes.
